

Cry for Help

Computer Tips & Tricks

Camera Phones

Here are a couple of NEW uses for your Camera Phone, give them a try.

Ever been at the supermarket and tried to read a label that is written in a ridiculously tiny font. Take a picture of the label, then blow up the image as you view it on the spot, in the supermarket.

What about trying to see the cable connections at the back of your computer or TV. You can either drag the computer out of the shelf or simply reach you hand around the back and take a photo with your phone. You can then review the results in your camera roll, once again zooming in if required. tip. Make sure your flash is set to Auto so that it will be used if required.

Then there is the anatomy, self examination tool. Not sure what that lump on the back of your shoulder is. Reach around and take a picture. Or better still, if you have an AppleTV, you can view live pictures on your TV. Simply start the camera and point it at the suspicious area.

Finally there is the Insurance Claim tool that is now always with you. Weather it is storm damage or a car accident, remember to take lots of pictures. Your car, the other car, the oil on the road, the power pole lying in a pool of water across the road etc. You can even take video. All will make the claim process so much more informative. No more do you have to rely on conflicting descriptions of the situation and damage.

There are probably many more uses for your camera phone. It has incredible clarity and is only limited by remembering to use it.

Jonathan Harris
JNH Software P/L
0417 33 66 21

