Photo Album Books

Now that you have all your digital pictures, filed carefully on your computer (together with several backups, in different locations), what now?

Remember the days when we use to flick through a photo album, full of memories, the photos might be different sizes, preserved under plastic or in plastic pockets, and bound in a photo album, and would include all the photos taken on the day, because this was the only way to preserve the photos.

Well now it has all changed, better quality and easier. By all means – keep the precious memories safe on the computer, but select the best pictures of the occasion and print your own book as well. Not by sticking photos into an album, but have each album page a full photo or collage of photos that is created from your digital pictures.

There are many options regarding web sites that will do this for you; SmileBox.com, Albumworks.com.au, SanpFish.com, XBook.com.au and PhotoBookAustralia.com.au, to name a few. Each is a little different, but generally they provide you with software that lets you arrange and resize your photos on each page of the album. Then the final step is to press the print button, pay some money, and soon after in the mail arrives your Photo Album Book. Entirely your creation, one of a kind, ready to wrap up as a gift to someone special – priceless!
